One thing that ought to be favorable to the Richard Olney boom is the fact of Grover Cleveland's opposition to it.

An exchange speaks of "the two-fold mission of the newspaper reporter." We regard the mission of the average reporter as a sort of three-fold object—breakfast, dinner and supper. When it comes to the bed, he can sleep on the exchange table.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, it is said, is a horse fancier, and bets her spare change on horse racing. She will soon earn her title to a conspicuous place in the "400," and ere long she will throw herself away on some penniless son of a moribund European "nobility."

Cleveland's popularity with the Republicans and their prompt endorsement of every suggestion of his candidacy could be sufficient evidence of his lack of true Democratic principle, if there were not ninety-nine other good reasons why he should be at once put outside the pale of even respectful consideration as a possible Democratic candidate for anything.

A newspaper correspondent polled the Legislature the other day on the yet remote Senatorial race. According to the straw vote, the House stood: Stockton 42; Talliaferro, 6; non-committal, 19. In the Senate: Stockton, 12; Talliaferro, 7; non-committal, 13. Those who were non-committal are supposed to be for Gov.
Jennings. This would give Stockton 54, Jennings 32, and Talliaferro 13. Happily for Florida, the present Legislature does not elect Senator Talliaferro's successor.

Some papers are against the magnificent project of good highway connecting Jacksonville with Tampa, Miami, and Pensacola. They ask:
"What good would they be?"
"What farmer would want to drive from Tampa to Jacksonville?" Then, we must assume such people, if they have no children, opposing schools; if non-church members, opposing church-building, and so on. Some people just can't bear the thought of progress, anyway.—Tampa Tribune.

Advertising is not a reckless gamble.
It is a force as powerful and subtle in the commercial world as electricity is in the physical world.

Its proper and direct use offers a sure road to success, and a well established and well-circulated local newspaper offers one of the safest and cheapest mediums between the merchant and his customers to be found in any method.

Money spent for advertising is not an expense. It is an investment. It is worth while to bear this in mind.—St. Augustine Record.

A Rollins College professor relates a serious tussle with the syllables of the names of our esteemed postmaster and his wife and the Rollins President:

Mrs. Whiteman—"Allow me to introduce Dr. Blackman; Mr. Whiteman, Dr.
Blackman."

This recalls an old story on contradiction in names concerning Editor Blackman of Miami, who is also a clergyman.
He went to a town in Lake county to edify the white men, and learned that a negro minister, Rev. Whiteman, was there preaching to the black men.—Sanford Chronicle.

Secretary Fred Mason, of the National Association of Retail Grocers, of St. Paul, Minnesota, in a speech at Atlanta, Ga., last week, said:

"I wish to insist that the only way to educate the public up to your system of fairness and honesty, where they won't believe you would take the advantage of them, is by a free use of advertising space in the newspapers. Newspapers are the best friends the retail grocer has. Take them into your confidence and entertain the reporters at your meetings, your dinners, and other entertainments."

Mr. Mason is evidently a very sensible man.—Punta Gorda Herald.

The Republican newspapers and many of the Democratic (so-called) organs have wasted much space in a systematic effort to belittle Wm. R. Hearst in the estimation of the American people.
Mr. Hearst, however, is not only a man of more than ordinary mental strength, but is a man of great moral courage and unselfish honesty and broad patriotism.
He has forced the deceitful Administration at Washington to come out from its cover and puncture the iron sides of the criminal Coal Trust, and he is keeping up the crusade at a rate that will ultimately compel Attorney General Knox to shoot or abandon his guns.

The orange blossom, hitherto regarded as indispensable at weddings as wreaths for the bride, is no longer in favor among the fashionable set. It has given place to lilies of the valley, which are now all the rage. Orange buds always were inconvenient and ungainly, but a bride was not looked on as a bride unless her veil was caught up with a spray of wax imitations. Then she was permitted to carry a bouquet of white roses. Now all this is changed, and the modest bride carries a mass of lilies of the valley, with a gardenia nestling somewhere. Her veil is trimmed with natural lilies, with orange blossoms absolutely.

A RAINBOW CHASER

Senorita Clemencia Lopez, a Philippine lady, described as "young, beautiful and highly educated," is now in America to plead for the liberty and independence of the Philippine people.

She made her debut in Boston last week at an anti-imperialist luncheon—a good place to inaugurate a first-class funeral for a landable ambition.

Miss Lopez expressed her gratitude to General Miles for his truthful report on the situation in the Philippines and the Jake-Smithism of the American soldiers.
She expressed a hope that the disclosures made by Gen. Miles would help along her crusade for freedom—another evidence of her lack of sophistry.

She is anxious to meet President Roosevelt, and pour out her heart to him. She will hardly do this—if Teddy sees her first. She had better see Mark Hanna, the Great American Arbitrator. He can soothe her yearning heart.

Miss Lopez very truly says: "The only true way to get the facts of the situation is to have Congress appoint an impartial commission to go out there and make a thorough personal investigation of the whole question, and ascertain the real condition of the native people and their sentiments regarding American rule."

The young lady is in the right, and her mission is high and noble. But for the present, we are inclined to regard it as a very foolish and useless chase.

HE'S DROPPED HIS CANDY

Alluding to the Stetson-Forbes scandal, the Lake Worth News says:

"The Volusia County Record is doing all the talking nowadays. The De-Land News has nothing more to say.
Probably the editor is meditating a coup d'etat."

In one sense, our Lake Worth contemporary is right. The DeLand News has nothing left to say. It has never had anything but assumption and assurance to work with, and that kind of stock has no lasting qualities.

Again, the aforesaid editor is meditating—not on a coup d'etat, but on the prestige he has lost, and the subscribers that do not renew.

His position reminds us of the fellow who yoked himself up with a steer. The animal took fright at something by the roadside, and began to run. The man could not stop him, and he was yoked up so tightly he couldn't get loose. He had to keep up. As he and the ox cantered along the road at a break-neck speed, he met a neighbor.

"Where are you going?" cried the astonished neighbor.

"Don't know," answered the man.

"Ax de steer!" He started me.

The editor of the News has taken himself outside the pale of free speech and yoked up with a queer combination of politicians, and now he has to "ax de-steer" where he is going to land.

THE GOOD ROADS BILL

The "Good Roads" bill introduced by Senator MacWilliams in the Legislature the other day seems to about cover all the available ground in sight at present.
It provides for the absorption of all the internal improvement funds now in the State treasury, the appropriation of a large part of the revenue from swamp and overflowed lands, the Indian War Claims fund, and any money that may be hereafter received from the National Government for road construction.

The trustees of the State internal improvement fund are to become the State Commissioners of Good Roads.

This bill is about the best solution of the good roads problem, and it ought to pass. But we have no hope for it at this time. The public mind is not yet ripe for such a broad step in the right direction.

The good roads question is one of great importance to Florida, where good roads are the exception instead of the rule. All the people, the rich and poor, the urban and rural, are pretty well agreed as to the manifold advantages to be derived from a system of good roads.

But they differ widely as to the best methods of obtaining them. Whenever an attempt to secure National aid for better roads is made, the ghost of the old States Rights bugbear, which was born of chattel slavery and died with it, rises up and cries "Paternalism." Then those who still grope amid the cobwebs of a long dead past emerge from their musty shells and bury the effort under an avalanche of blind prejudice and inexcusable ignorance.

When the question of State aid to good roads is broached, the opposition takes on another hue. This time the cry is "Inequality of Taxation and Distribution of Benefits." "Let each county build its own roads," says many wise men.

At first blush, this idea looks good, but it does not always pan out. Many of the counties in Florida are controlled by political rings, and these rings usually dwell about the county seat. Then the remote parts of the county, which often contribute the largest portion of revenue, receive the smallest portion of the public benefits to be derived from the system.

It is always hard to break up a political ring. No matter how corrupt it may be, it generally finds ways and means to hold its grip upon the throat of the taxpayer. It coerces the dependent, enforces the weak, rewards the strong, and with the lash of party fealty compels the obedience of the timid. Few, indeed, are the those who have the moral courage to put public duty above party fealty.

There are times, however, when forbearance ceases to be a virtue—when conditions arise that justify revolution.
It is then that the politicians scamper for the fence, and the wise ones get down on the side of the people, and the "Rule of Ruin" element passes into oblivion.

That time is near at hand in Florida.
The tide is already rising, and when the flood time is reached, there will be, at least, something resembling an equal distribution of public benefits.

Heart Disease.

Could Not Lie On Left Side.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured Me.

Mrs. H. R. Jobe, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., writes from Eldredge, the same state, as follows:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure. I can say with truth that every sufferer from heart trouble who has done me.
Last winter I had a severe attack of La-Grippe, which left my heart in a very bad condition. I could not lie on my left side for a long time. I got your Heart Cure and took three bottles.
I have no trouble now with my heart and can lie on my left side as well as my right.
Formerly I had suffered for years with nervous prostration. I had tried so many remedies that I had got clear out of heart of getting anything that would help me. The nervine of my heart was so affected that sometimes it would lose beats so it would seem to stop altogether. It was on the advice of a lady friend that I tried your Restorative Nervine. I felt better after the first few doses and two bottles of Nervine and one of Heart Cure made me feel like a new person. My heart is all right and my nervi-cousness is all gone. I never fail to recommend it to others afflicted with it was."

Cures When Doctors Fail.

Mrs. Frank Chasmon, Patterson, La., writes, June 18th, 1902: "I had numerious attacks of heart trouble, and was under treatment by doctors, but as soon as I stopped taking their medicine the fever would return. I used a sample bottle of Her-bine found it helped me. Then I bought two bottles, which completely cured me.
I feel grateful to you for furnishing such a splendid medicine, and can honestly recommend it to those suffering from heart trouble, as it will surely cure them."

Spring Ailments.

There is an aching and tired feeling; the liver, bowels, and kidneys become sluggish and inactive, the digestion impaired, with little or no appetite, no ambition for anything, and a feeling that the whole mind and body needs toning up. The trouble is, that during winter, there has been an accumulation of waste matter in the system. Herbine will remove it, secure to the secretions a right exit, and by its tonic effect, fully restore the wasted tissues and give strength in place of weakness. 50c at J. M. Jones.

Pursuing high ideals is more profitable than eating a low one.

Too Great a Risk.

In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of cholera or malaria, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these diseases should be kept at hand. The risk is too great for anyone to take. Cholera, Typhoid, Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly relieved more pain and suffering and saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in use.
For sale by all druggists.

Some men never live long enough to learn the difference between fame and notoriety.

Greatly Alarmed.

A. P. Burbage, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough, which he says greatly alarmed him, causing him to fear that he was in the first stages of consumption. Mr.
Burbage, having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, concluded to try it. Now read what he says of it:
"I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the twenty-five cent size, was permanently cured." Sold by all druggists.

A HEALTH POLICY

The system is from natural causes, debilitated, or run down both in the spring and fall. The season's changes are always a tax on the human organism. The blood becomes impure in the spring, and vitality lags in the fall. A little care, a little assistance, and nature will do the rest, as it is always trying to maintain health.
Frequently the weakest organ will show the most disorder, and this often leads to wrong treatment.

For the debilitated conditions of spring or fall, or any other time, for that matter, the right thing to do is to build up the whole system. It is not your stomach, or liver, or nerves alone that cause the trouble; you are weakened all over and must have renewed strength and vitality. These you cannot get so quickly or surely or safely as by using another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the
